Hello,
the DNSBL Filter causes lots of problems with mobile users or travellers.

Problem:

Users who were able to send mails before are suddenly blocked, because they're travelling and getting a dynamic IP, that had been used by spammers before.

Solution:

It would be better if one could configure a score for this filter the same way it is in the spamassassin integrated DNSRBL filter. The AWL score off those users would prevent those mails from beeing blocked.

The way it works now makes the filter unusable because it's blocking some off the most important mails. (From travelling people)
