
Subject: Blocking good email

Posted by economyspring on Mon, 05 Dec 2005 19:03:34 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

OK. I got past my other error by installing NoSpam on another computer.

However, it seems to block ANY message with html content.

I adjusted the spamassosin from 4.8 to 5.5 and will see if that helps.

Is there a way to adjust things so it doesnt block html? Will adjusting from 4.8 to a higher number be my only option?

Thanks

Subject: Re: Blocking good email

Posted by support on Tue, 06 Dec 2005 09:13:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

> However, it seems to block ANY message with html content.

>

> I adjusted the spamassosin from 4.8 to 5.5 and will see if that > helps.

>

> Is there a way to adjust things so it doesnt block html? Will > adjusting from 4.8 to a higher number be my only option?

A message is blocked if it looks "spammy". This has nothing to do whether it has HTML content or not. Look at the SpamAssassin report which is added to the blocked mails to find out which SpamAssassin tests triggered.
