

---

Subject: How to use new POP3 Feature

Posted by realmde on Thu, 18 Aug 2005 07:39:55 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Nice to see that you have also a POP3 Proxy in NST. What username and host is required in the mail client? It should be a combination of host and login. Could not find anything in the documentation

---

---

Subject: Re: How to use new POP3 Feature

Posted by realmde on Thu, 18 Aug 2005 09:33:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Seems to be the same as NST for workstation

username:pop3.server

---

---

Subject: Re: How to use new POP3 Feature

Posted by support on Thu, 18 Aug 2005 09:44:22 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

realmde wrote:

> Seems to be the same as NST for workstation

>

> username:pop3.server

Yes, exactly. We'll add more details to the POP3 proxy part of the documentation with the next release.

---