

---

Subject: Log to a Database

Posted by eastwood on Thu, 04 May 2006 00:08:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Any plans to make NST log to a database such as mysql rather than a text file would help so much with debug and reporting and queries?

---

---

Subject: Re: Log to a Database

Posted by Heidner on Fri, 05 May 2006 22:02:29 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Not a perfect solution, but for the interim you could use spamlogs to convert the logfiles into a csv file... then import the changes once a day into a ms-access, ms-sql, mysql or postgresql database.

---