

---

Subject: DNSBL

Posted by InforMed Direct on Tue, 04 Sep 2007 08:03:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

One of the tips mentions setting up a DNSBL filter and to consult the manual. I can't see an entry in the list of filters for DNSBL.

Thanks, Rob.

---

Subject: Re: DNSBL

Posted by support on Tue, 04 Sep 2007 11:40:02 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Choose one DNSBL service you trust to do the right thing. The default setting uses Spamcop and Spamhaus, and it should be OK to stick with the default.

Spamhaus recently was involved in an ugly fight with the Austrian registry, blocking .at domains. This was a questionable decision, and let's hope they don't do it again.