2.3.1.2 is causing access violations supposedly because of port conflict. but there is no other app sniffing port 110. I reinstalled the previous release and things are working fine again. anyone else having problems with 2.3.1.2

This problem fortunately occurred only for a few not quite well-behaved mail clients. The new version (2.3.1.3) should fix it.

You can also check if a new version of your mail client software is available.
