To prevent an open relay, I have to provide the recipient addresses with or without wildcards. That works as it should but unfortunately we're receiving mails to internal distribution lists from external sources but this is not desired. To prevent that I would have to create a list with all valid addresses, but how about an additional text field where I enter all mail addresses for which I don't want to accept mails?

That would be a lot easier than to maintain a big list of valid addresses...
