
Subject: Mail for other users hitting my account

Posted by joshuastarr on Wed, 24 Aug 2005 20:27:03 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Is there a reason why mail that is addressed to other users would bleed into/hit my email account with no "No Spam Today!" modifications to the subject line or header?

I am getting an increasing amount of spams AND regular messages that get sent to my account with no modification, but intended for a different recipient.

Thanks

Subject: Re: Mail for other users hitting my account

Posted by support on Fri, 26 Aug 2005 09:27:05 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

joshuastarr wrote:

- > Is there a reason why mail that is addressed to other users
- > would bleed into/hit my email account with no "No Spam Today!"
- > modifications to the subject line or header?
- >
- > I am getting an increasing amount of spams AND regular messages
- > that get sent to my account with no modification, but intended
- > for a different recipient.

Please send some example mails together with your nospamtoday.cf and nospamtoday.log files to nstsupport@byteplant.com for analysis.
