
Subject: Specifying sub-domains on Blacklists and Whitelists

Posted by kass on Mon, 27 Aug 2007 02:05:52 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Greetings!

If we wanted to add both domain.com and sub1.domain.com to our blacklist, can we use *@*domain.com to restrict all sub-domains or do we need to list each domain, i.e.: *@domain.com *@sub1.domain.com?

Thank you for your help!

Subject: Re: Specifying sub-domains on Blacklists and Whitelists

Posted by support on Wed, 29 Aug 2007 16:35:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

> If we wanted to add both domain.com and sub1.domain.com to our > blacklist, can we use *@*domain.com to restrict all sub-domains > or do we need to list each domain, i.e.: *@domain.com > *@sub1.domain.com?

Yes, subdomains can be specified this way.
